Tim, I need to vent a little.

This is a July 2016 newsletter, but not on their website?

French but not that French? It is NRHP eligible from the first evidence of colonial ID, and it is being blasted by blowers just to find the shiny stuff. Instead of 50k every year for a fossil dig, we could be investing in a truly unique site on state lands. They mention BHP but we don't permit 1A-31 (yet). This is not archaeological work so if this comes to BHP, and we actually follow the current 1A-31, we would have to deny them further permission to destroy this site. I'm a little shocked we've allowed them to get this far, since any decent CRM firm could have identified this wreck without blowing it apart.

And we're also opening up Rule 1A-31 again? I actively wrote and organized the last rule revision-it did not go well and took almost a year. I still don't see any evidence of anyone following the current revision of the rule, so I'm not sure how changing it again will help. The only aspect that actually changed is that they're not sending us fees now.

Ugh, I've been reduced to ranting. I would like to genuinely help if anyone has any use of it.
Thanks for listening,
Dan

Hi Jeff,

We never received a copy from GME of its ACOE permit for work off of Cape Canaveral. The last version I have on record expired in 2014 (SAJ-2014-01502, Global Marine). Would you mind terribly sending us a copy? Thanks for your time. Mary
